Preface

The 3rd Asian Internet Engineering Conference (AINTEC) followed the first two successful editions held in Bangkok, Thailand, and focused on developing synergies between researchers in Asia and worldwide, but was also a unique chance for young, talented regional scientists to meet and interact. AINTEC 2007 was therefore a major opportunity for presentations and discussions around these objectives. In particular, it aimed at addressing issues pertinent to the Asian region with vast diversities of socio-economic and networking conditions while inviting high-quality and recent research results from the global international research community to be presented. The conference is single-track to favor discussions among a diverse set of participants.

We want to thank the authors of the 66 papers submitted for considering AINTEC as the right target for their paper. The submissions came from 18 countries with, as expected, a majority from Asia. The program was composed of 14 accepted papers organized in 6 technical sessions including 7 invited talks by leading experts on innovative topics, presentations of papers, demos, posters and a pre-conference 18th Asian School on Computer Science (November, 25–26 2007).

You might think that AINTEC is yet another conference but it has different objectives and spirit, it offers a great opportunity to discuss future challenges for a sustainable Internet, and to get to know the local and regional researchers and enjoy the great hospitality of Thailand.

This edition was made possible thanks to many individuals. We want to warmly thank the Program Committee members for accepting to spend time in supporting the conference and carefully reviewing the submissions. We are very pleased with the support from Springer as a publisher for the proceedings and would like to thank them for their trust. Finally, our strong recognition goes to Apinun Tunpan, who took care of all the logistics in managing the review process and Kanchana Kanchanasut for perfectly orchestrating the event. We, personally, enjoyed being involved in this edition of AINTEC.
