

AN INTERACTIVE NETWORK GRAPHICS SYSTEM

by

Dan Cohen¹ and Edward Taft²

This paper discusses a number of issues relevant to the design of systems for performing interactive graphics over a computer network such as the ARPA Network. We then describe a working implementation of such a system and an example of its use.

¹Information Sciences Institute, University of Southern California, Los Angeles, California

²Xerox Palo Alto Research Center, Palo Alto, California